Central Liberal Association Formed

A Liberal rally was held at the Blairmore opera house on Wednesday morning, and was largely attended by representatives from all over this portion of the district. The chair was occupied by Capt. W. A. Beebe, who called upon Mr. Perry, the organizer, to outline the purpose of the meeting and the methods of organizing.

The election of officers resulted in Alex. M. Morrison, of Coleman, being chosen as president, and J. E. Gillis as secretary of the central organization. Messrs J. C. Boudreau, of Frank, and J. N. Rowell, of Pasaburg, were elected vice-presidents.

Following the election of officers President Morrison took the chair and called upon the Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of public works.

Hon. Mr. Stewart addressed the gathering briefly, expressing regret at not having paid the attention due to this particular part of the Province. He declared himself to be a single taxer, but felt that the single tax could not work out satisfactorily in all parts of Alberta, especially in the south. He thought that in adopting the single-tax law due consideration was not given this territory, and that it must naturally bring a certain amount of hardship in some cases. He was a firm believer in the promotion of the province's agricultural policy and endeavored at all times to acquaint himself with the difficulties that confronted the agriculturist. On this, his first visit to this part of his constituency, he desired to become acquainted with such questions as appeared to be a problem with our people, and also to acquaint himself with certain of our requirements as might be referred to the federal government through the government of the province. He realized the unemployment problem which at present confronted us, and hope during his visit this time to become thoroughly conversant with the situation and be in a position to consider ways and means whereby to relieve the situation. Referring to the newly-organized association, it gave him great pleasure to know that the organization was in charge of such capable officials and wished for them a successful term of office.

It was hoped that Hon. J. R. Boyle, minister of education, would be present, but owing to having to fill an appointment at Athabasca, his visit had to be postponed till a later date.

It is desirable that as many as possible attend these sewing meetings in order to turn out as great a quantity of hospital supplies as possible.

Wine Makes Hens Lay

M. Joubert, professor of the Agricultural college at Fontainebleau, announced to the agricultural world some time ago that after exhaustive experiments, he had at last discovered something that would make hens lay. This something proved to be wine, which was given to the fowls daily, whereupon they laid many more eggs than they had not so treated. Peculiarly enough, it is not a new idea, for the earliest poultry chronicler, "Colubella," recommended wine for fattening fowls.

Doubtless many aged country folks can remember how common it was in younger days to give beer to hens to encourage them to lay. Many old-time fanciers made it a practice to give their prize fowls wine-soaked pills just before they were judged to bring up the birds, so that they would show off their good points. One fancier, not so many years ago, at a show, inadvertently gave his bantams too much of these pills, and the poultry judge had to reluctantly finish his task of judging the winners over this fancier's exhibit "came to."

A despatch to Calgary this morning states that Italy has declared war on Austria. Now there's going to be something doing.

Monday next, being Victoria Day, will be observed as a public holiday.

The Canadian militia department has authorized the formation of seven new infantry battalions, comprising 8000 men.

Quite a number attended the show this morning at the mounted police barracks. Several old favorites took part and the programme was unusually interesting.

A local Chinaman did not know that Canada was really at war until Wednesday last, when he mistook a tin bucket flying towards him to be a zeppelin bomb.

Despite the repeated warnings given by the C.P.R., people continue to make use of the railway company's private right-of-way for crossings. About a year ago a little boy named Levesque lost his leg by being run over by a train while in the act of crossing the railroad, and a suit in that connection is now pending. One day this week a repetition of that accident, and what might have been a more serious result, was barely averted by the unusual alertness of one of the train hands. Something of a serious nature will result if the public continue to ignore the warnings given them.

Interesting Publications

The Dominion Parks Branch has recently issued three publications which are noteworthy on account of the attractive form in which they are printed and the interesting matter they contain. They are: "Classified Guide to Fish and Their Habitat, Rocky Mountains Park"; "The Nakimu Caves"; "Glaciers of the Rockies and Selkirk". The Fish Guide is written for the sportsman and naturalist rather than the scientist. It is a compilation of first-hand information for anglers by one who has fished in all the principal waters of the park. It takes up each locality, describes the best means of reaching it, the different varieties of fish that can be secured, and the best bait to use. The game fish of the Rockies include five species of trout, one of which—the Lake Minnow—has been known to run as high as 40 pounds. The Grayling, the Holly Varden and the Cutthroat trout are found in many of the lakes and streams of the Park and a fish hatchery has recently been established at Banff for the purpose of restocking these which have become depleted.

The second pamphlet gives an interesting account of the formation, character and discovery of the famous Nakimu Caves near Glacier, B.C. These interesting natural curiosities are supposed to be about 4,000 years old and consist of a series of underground chambers, some of them fifty feet high and more than two hundred feet long, hollowed out partly by erosion and partly by volcanic action, and opening into each other at different levels. The walls of the caves are covered with strange fossilized limestone formations and they reverberate to the roar of underground laboratory. The different chambers have been given names suggestive of their character: "The Pit"; "The Art Gallery"; "The Judgment Hall"; "The White Grotto"; "The British Chamber" etc., and when they are reached by electricity and proper lamps and handrails have been placed on the stairs and platforms, they should be among the most interesting sights in the Rockies for tourists.

"Glaciers of the Rockies and Selkirk" is by Dr. A. P. Coleman, Professor of Geology in the University of Toronto, and bears on the cover an attractive reproduction in color of a sketch of Mt. Bell, one of the picturesque peaks near the Divide. Dr. Coleman is a scientist with the imagination of a poet and he has written the story of the formation and work of the Canadian glaciers with all his well-known literary charm. The pamphlet should prove not only a great help to the student of glacial phenomena who visits the Parks but it should inspire many Canadians with a desire to see the wonderful mountain scenery of their own country for themselves. "To put on," Dr. Coleman says, "warm, strong clothes and hosiery and shoes and to fill one's lungs with mountain air in a serene up to the snowfields to see how the glacial machinery works."

The pamphlets may be obtained upon application to the Dominion Parks Branch, Ottawa, without charge.

Ever See Any Bald Women?

The other afternoon a loafer on the street, whose wife was probably at home getting out a neighbor's washing to make money to buy the children shoes, asked us if we ever saw a bald-headed woman. We replied that we never had. We also informed this fellow that we had never seen a woman cruising around town with a cigar in her mouth, running into every saloon she saw. Dr. Coleman says, "warm, strong clothes and hosiery and shoes and to fill one's lungs with mountain air in a serene up to the snowfields to see how the glacial machinery works."

Our old friend Dr. Cook announces that he is going to climb Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, this summer. It has been regarded as unclimbable up to the present. Judging by the ease with which he was able to put his North Pole story over on some people, with correspondingly large box-office receipts, it hardly seems worth the doctor's while making a serious attempt to reach the top. What's the use of actually doing a thing so long as you can persuade a sufficiently large public that you have done it?—Edmonton Journal.

Langemack

Long shall the deathless story live
Of Langemack's bloody day,
When three German's legions drove
Up-rolling westward, wave on wave,
And swept the French defenders brave
Boardward in glory gay.

The thundering guns their voices raised,
Attuned to deadly ire;
The hurrying bomb and hissing shell
Made war's deep diapason swell.
Till all became a seething hell
Out-limned in sulphurous fire!

The German hordes in madness charged,
And mighty was their force;
Right through the lines they burst their way,
And drew the story of that day
Were not our heroes there, to stay
The Teuton's desperate course.

Then was it that that young Canada
Dispelled their maddened tried;
With courage grand they met that shock
And like some storm, unyielding rock
That scorns the tide, 't was thus they mock
The foe-man's wrath and pride!

The Tutors led before their charge,
Flung back dismayed again;
The tide is turned, the foe-men run,
And on a field right bravely won
Our northern banners flaunt the sun
Far'er that crimsoned plain!

Long shall their glorious deeds be praised,
Where Britain gathered be;
And Langemack's lasting fame enrolled
On stone and scroll, for aye and aye.
The memory of those heroes hold
Who died to keep us free!

—J. B. D., in Toronto Globe.

War

(Suitable for Recitation.)
I hear the war drums rolling,
The sound of hurrying feet,
The noise and crash of battle
Where sword and sabre meet.

I see the war horse rushing
With heated fiery breath
Where hosts on hosts are crashing
The foe to instant death.

Like loud incessant thunder
The murderous cannon peals,
The stammering nations wonder
And earth in terror reels.

I see the death-flame flashing
Amid the fearful strife
Where shot and shell are crashing
Through ranks of human life.

I see the vanquished scattered
O'er mountain, moor and rock,
Their mightiest forces shattered
Beneath the awful shock.

I hear the cry of anguish
From war-torn over-towns,
Woe, pain and wounded, languish
In agonies unknown.

I see fair fields down trodden
The rivers tinged with red,
Whirl of battle ground, blood-soaked
Are strewn the ghastly dead.

In city, town and village
The ripened crop of time,
I see most cruel pillage
And harrowed and ruined crime.

I see in dire confusion,
The death-racked sailors drown
Where, 'mid the depths of ocean,
The mighty ships go down.

I mark the mother's sorrow,
In homes where none to grieve,
Can bring the heart relief.

I see the widow smitten
With hopeless, life-long woe,
And children, hungry blighted,
Whose tears must daily flow.

I see fair homes in ruins;
And households dark and drear;
Not even hell's driven voices
Exceed the crimes of war.

In you Celestial City,
Beyond our mortal ken
The awe-struck angels pity
The bleeding wounds of men.

O War! accursed! Abhorrent!
What woes attend on thee?
What follow like a torrent,
Where'er thy path may be.

O why, in hate and malice,
Should man his fellow slay?
And temple, cottage, palace
In smouldering ruins lay?

In horror glancing war-ward
We pray thee, God of peace!
That Thou wouldst stay hence forward,
The sound of war shall cease.

O, let that word be spoken!
Be every war-faring furled;
And harmony unbroken
Prevail throughout the world.

Would Sink The Mauretania Too

New York, May 15.—Indicating the reception that will be accorded to the United States demand for a stoppage of the submarine warfare, the New York World has the following dispatch from its Berlin correspondent:

"The Mauretania or any other British liner will be torpedoed, sunk and meet the same fate as the Lusitania if our submarines can reach them, and that they can has been demonstrated."

"We will continue to wage war against England with the same relentlessness and remorselessness that she is waging war against us."

"Nothing will deter us from that; nothing will cause us to deviate from that course, except England's own action."

Thus declared a high German government official when asked what the future submarine policy would be.

Should Cancel Stamps

As permission has been given for postage stamps to be used for the prepayment of war duties on bank checks, bills of exchange, promissory notes, etc., on express money orders and on proprietary or patent medicines, perfumery, wines or champagne, as well as upon letters and post cards, postal notes and post office money orders, it has been brought to the attention of the post office department that merchants retailing proprietary or patent medicines, perfumery, wines or champagne, are not in all cases properly cancelling the postage stamps affixed to these articles for the purpose of paying the war tax.

How Truro People Get A Weed Drop

Many amusing stories are told of those resorted to get in the "O be joyful," this in order to prevent it being seized at the express offices and the freight sheds.

One is to order in the name of staid citizens, who, if they do take a nip, few know it.

Booze arriving under their names bears the semblance of "for personal use," and may for that reason escape seizure, or if seized some innocent person, whose name is on the packages, must bear the unpleasantness.

However, the tricks do not work out to the advantage of those who play them; occasionally the cargo goes astray.

For instance, one night two cases were delivered at the home of a Truro man.

The gentleman said: "I did not order anything," but it being pointed-out to him that his name was on them, he paid the freight and took delivery, with the result that he was in several dozen bottles of beer.

And yet another case. A young man was informed that there was a barrel addressed to him at the freight shed, eighty cents freight to pay.

He had not ordered anything to come by freight, but he snuck a rat, paid the freight, and took delivery of the barrel and had sufficient liquor to him several weeks.

In both cases the cargoes went away, the persons they were intended for did not get them. They dare not complain, else they might be in for fraud.

Here is a very amusing case:

citizen, a tinsmith, received a letter at the post office, of which the following is a copy. We omit names:

Hallifax, May 4, 1915.

Mr. —, Truro, N. S.

Dear Sir:—Your order received today, and may say that on account of temperance we cannot ship goods to Truro any more. Enclosed find your express order for $2.00.

Thanking you, we remain,

The letter was from a Halifax liquor firm, but as the gentleman had ordered nothing from them, he is in two dollars, minus the person who owns it puts in a claim. But will he? And who is he?

One thing is apparent, and that is that there is at least one liquor firm in Halifax that will not be a party to breaking the law by shipping liquor to outside places.

In this case, which, think you, was the best?

We have always contended that the person who asks another to violate the law by selling liquor should be equally guilty with the seller.—Truro Citizen.

An individual living near Burmis, who was recently sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment, and who was let out before serving that time, writes to The Enterprise to tell us we are a long way behind the times as well as making a big mistake. A Blairmore cat is wearing a smile almost as broad as the heavens, rejoicing over its unusual experiences. About a week ago a local Chinaman, who became annoyed by the cat's stealing tactics, asked permission of the city police to shoot the cat. Permission was granted on condition that he exercise every precaution to avoid endangering property or the lives of citizens. He procured a German howitzer, which he mounted on a miniature fortification composed of bangles beer kegs. Here he waited for but a short period when Mr. Cat, who evidently had been made aware of the anticipations of Mr. Chinaman, came up at the rear end of another keg just nine feet distant. After spying around to see that all else was out of the danger zone, he directed his attention to his would-be prey and set off the projectile. The cat stepped one side to avoid contact with the bullet, then walked off apparently disgusted at having lost so much valuable time in the hope of ascertaining the marksmanship of a celestial. However, "the cat came back," and his widelake face just smiled at the repeated unsuccessful efforts of his enemy to settle at one shot a life that deserved ten. The cat is now about the happiest individual in this Great Metropolis, while the Chinaman is wearing an expression that would fill even the Kaiser with horror.

The board of license commissioners met at Macleod yesterday to consider applications for renewal of wholesale and retail liquor licenses. All licenses applied for were granted. A new war invention, a torpedo hydro-aeroplane, which is devised by a Swede, Knud Nyström, for destroying submarines, was shown in operation before members of the Swedish Parliament. This torpedo aeroplane travels at high speed and the torpedo part can be fired at very long range. After the torpedo is fired, it travels by its own power in the ordinary way. It is said the torpedo aeroplane will prove a most effective weapon against submarines.

A petition was circulated during the week, and signed by over fifty citizens who are desirous of closing down the business of the Murphy & Frayer Liquor Company. The reasons set forward are, firstly, the institution is giving employment other than Canadian born citizens, and secondly, that Blairmore does not require a second wholesale liquor store at the present time. We understand that the petition was presented to the Board of License Commissioners at their recent sitting for consideration.

Rev. Dr. Riddell at the convocation exercises of Alberta College at Edmonton said that every Methodist minister in the province who had sons old enough for active service had given at least one of them to the cause of the Empire. This is a statement that will stand thinking over, observes the Edmonton Journal. It serves to show how far-reaching has been the appeal of the Allies' cause and how much this is a war of the whole people. The ministers of other churches have also given freely. A list was issued recently under the authority of the Moderator of the Church of Scotland which showed that no less than ninety per cent. of the sons of the manse available for service were now in the army or navy.
